“The 1955 yearbook calls them “The Horse Hide Hurlers” and they became the best baseball team in the last seven years. Larry Baughman- he was a good catcher right from the start. Bob Tipton- a good glove man and a lot of pepper. Jerry Seesholtz- a good steady player. And Bob Reed- he personified baseball team spirit. This team had great potential. Also, Dick England appeared on the scene as an assistant coach.”
